A Pep Talk for Small Business Owners

I brought some holiday cheer the other day to a friend of mine who was bummed about the economy. He owns a small advertising company and, as is the case with everyone these days, he's been experiencing losses, forcing him to lay off a few employees. I told him to speak to the experts at Merchant Cash Advance to get him through these tough economic times.

"Yeah, I've heard of those places, they loan you a bunch of money, and then you spend the rest of your life paying it back. And besides I don't generate enough revenue to even qualify for one. No thanks," he huffed.

I told him that nothing could be farther from the truth. First of all, the friendly, knowledgeable staff at Merchant Cash Advance is here to help by giving you all the information up front. They're not out to make a buck, they're out to help your small business succeed. It's a win-win situation for everyone. Check them out at www.merchantcashadvance.com if you're skeptical.

"But they won't want to deal with the 'small people' like me," he asked me with a hint of interest in his voice.

I explained that he was wrong again. In fact, any small to mid-sized company that's been in existence for the past 12 months, generates $3000 a month in credit card transactions, and has struggled in the past to obtain financial support and/or has little to no collateral qualifies for a loan of between $5,000 to $150,000! Additionally, there are no closing costs, origination fees, collateral, or cosigner requirements, and after approval, those funds are wired into your business checking account in 10 to 14 days. That's it.

"Really? Well this sounds a little too good to be true. How long do I have to pay the loan back? I'm short on cash now, but when the economy improves I'll be fine. But who knows when that's going to happen?"

I advised him that there's no fixed time frame for repayment. The folks at Merchant Cash Advance simply create an automated system through which they'll retrieve a specified percentage of your future Visa and MasterCard sales.

"But...um..." he stumbled.

"But nothing!" I answered. "Call Merchant Cash Advance at 1-800-503-1146 or visit their website at www.merchantcashadvance.com where you can fill out an online application form to get the scoop on how to get fast cash for your small business!"

My friend did end up getting the money, and thanked me for the pep talk. So if you're a small business owner, heed my advice and give Merchant Cash Advance a try, you'll be glad you did.
