Welcome to the official blog site of Merchant Cash Advance and Merchant Credit Advance! The purpose of this blog site is to offer valuable information to our readers on alternatives to small business loans. Through MCA, our clients are able to obtain working capital that provides them with the quick cash they need to improve their businesses.

The realm of finance is not new to us. For years, we have been a leader in student loan consolidations. But due to the recent changes in student loan legislation, we have redirected our focus from helping students save money to helping small business owners get money! As veterans in the world of finance, we have a strong team of experts who work to help our clients receive the working capital that they need in a fast, efficient manner.

Because we are not a traditional lending institution, our clients can avoid the hassles that are associated with applying for bank loans. We do NOT require: tax records, business profiles, collateral, personal financial statements from owners or partners, or years of business financial statements.

To learn more about MCA and how we can work for you, please visit: www.merchantcashadvance.com or www.merchantcreditadvance.com today! And keep checking back to our blog for the latest in the world of cash advance and finance options!
